Dear Parents and Carers,

I am sorry to write again regarding the definition of a key worker. However, after receiving updated information late last night, the guidance has now been updated about which parents are able to still send their children to school for essential work related reasons. Please see link for clarification of a definition of a key worker: <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/coronavirus-covid-19-maintaining-educational-provision/guidance-for-schools-colleges-and-local-authorities-on-maintaining-educational-provision>

Please note that this definition is subject to change according to government guidance. Please also note that school should be shut to the vast majority of pupils unless there is no other option.

If one parent or carer is a key worker but there are no suitable childcare arrangements, please contact the school via the link below. Please note that this provision is covering essential working only.

Please also note that if you are a key worker, sending your child to school is not compulsory. If you do not wish for your child to attend school despite the criteria above, and you have alternative childcare arrangements that will not restrict you from doing your important role in combating coronavirus, then please do not accept your place offer. This will free the space up for somebody else.

If you have already contacted the school about your role, you will NOT need to do so again, but please complete the following link by midday today if this is not the case.

We would like to say a huge thank you for your patience while we make the best possible arrangements for support. Thank you for your continued support.

Yours sincerely,
